TOP 10 Things To Do

01 Visit Distinctive Neighborhoods

Each of Taipei's shopping areas has its own character. Visiting Dadaocheng, Bangka, and Ximending, you can appreciate old buildings and traditional culture. The young generation has shown creativity here, giving old blocks an irresistible charm. The Eastern Shopping District is the place to search for fashionable stores, with Taipei 101 and the Xinyi Shopping District serving as bustling fashion hubs. The lanes and alleys of Yongkang Street, Nanxi Xinzhongshan shopping area, and Chifeng Street feature unique styles and small stores.

See Cultural & Creative Attractions

In Taipei, many old buildings have been given a new lease of life as cultural-creative design bases. Rongjin Gorgeous Time, originally a dormitory for prison officers during the Japanese era; Huashan 1914 Creative Park, once a winery; Songshan Cultural and Creative Park, formerly a tobacco factory; The Red House, a century-old market building, cultural-creative shops in old houses in Dadaocheng, and the Four Four South Village, which retains the appearance of an early military dependents' settlement, are all great spots to find good design and exhibitions amid historic charm.

03 Worship at Temples

Most of Taipei's early settlements developed around temples. Many of these have a long history, including Songshan Ciyou Temple, where a black-faced Mazu is worshipped; Bangka Longshan Temple, which is always busy; Taipei Xiahai City God Temple, where people pray for a happy family life; Dalongdong Baoan Temple, where worshippers pray for health; as well as Dadaocheng Cisheng Temple and Guandu Temple. These temples not only bear witness to the city's development, inside you will also find exquisite wood carvings, stone inscriptions, ceramic applique, and lifelike Buddha statues to admire.

Appreciate Art and Culture

If you want to admire classical Chinese culture, visit the National Palace Museum, home to famous treasures like the Jadeite Cabbage and the Meat-shaped Stone. If you fancy modern art, it's worth visiting the Taipei Fine Arts Museum, Museum of Contemporary Art, Treasure Hill Artist Village, SPOT Taipei Film House, Taipei Music Center, and Taipei Performing Arts Center. Also, independent bookstores and second-hand bookshops in Gongguan, along with Zhongshan Underground Book Street—offering tens of thousands of books—showcase the cultural depth of Taipei.

05 Enjoy a Hot-Spring Bath

One of the best things about Taipei is that you can hop on the MRT and arrive in Beitou, known for its steaming hot spring water and lush greenery, in less than an hour. Hot-spring bathing in the area dates back to the Japanese era, which is why Beitou Hot Spring Museum and Beitou Museum are all rich in Japanese atmosphere. Taipei Public Library Beitou Branch's green building and the sulfuric steam wafting at Thermal Valley are also unique sights.

Sip Tea While Admiring the Scenery

Maokong is renowned for cultivating Wenshan Baozhong and Tieguanyin teas, offering a rare tea country atmosphere within the city. The Maokong Gondola provides elevated views of lush green mountains and tea plantations. Visitors can stroll along winding mountain trails, and relax at a teahouse to savor fine teas and tea-infused dishes. As the sun sets, the sparkling night view of Taipei unfolds. Beyond Maokong, the Nangang Tea Processing Demonstration Center offers an in-depth exploration of Taiwan's tea culture, featuring selected fine teas from across Taiwan and various experiential activities, inviting visitors to linger.

07 Explore the Starlight City

To discover the nighttime charms of Taipei, hop on the Taipei Sightseeing Bus, a double-decker tourist bus service that tours the brightly lit city. For fun places to go with friends at night, head to the Container Market at Dadaocheng Wharf, the nightclubs of Xinyi Shopping District, and cafés hidden away in lanes and alleys. For late-night snacks, visit night markets and sample Michelin Bib Gourmand picks, or you can find shops selling soymilk and rice porridge with side dishes and other delicious treats. Taipei also has a 24/7 bookstore where night owls can seek spiritual nourishment.

Enjoy Coffee in Distinctive Cafés

Visiting cafés is one of the best ways to get to know Taipei. Many old houses in Dadaocheng have been renovated and now the tempting aroma of fine coffee wafts out from within. Characterful cafés can also be found on Section 2 of Zhongshan North Road, Chifeng Street, Yongkang Street, Qingtian Street, Fujin Street, etc. Taipei's coffee culture has many charming faces, allowing you to enjoy coffee of exotic styles and appreciate distinctive designs. You can also visit cafés that offer family spaces, reading corners or creative design bases, adding extra dimensions to the coffee-drinking experience.

09 Visit the Riverside

The Tamsui and Keelung rivers gently embrace this city. Riverside parks are closely connected to people's lives, which are popular spots for early morning runs, nighttime cycling, and other leisure activities. They are also venues for a variety of activities in summer, attracting families and groups of friends to listen to concerts or to play by the water to cool down. Boat trips on the Tamsui River can be taken from Dadaocheng and Guandu Wharves, with the "blue highway" offering varied views of the city and riverbank scenery.

Have Fun Close to Nature

It's fairly easy to get to natural spots in Taipei. Just take a bus from Shilin to Yangmingshan National Park to view unique volcanic terrain. The Four Beasts Mountain Trail is suitable for leisure hiking and is also a good place to look out over Taipei and watch the New Year's Eve fireworks. There are various leisure farms in Shilin, Beitou, Neihu, and Wenshan districts that offer experiential activities such as strawberry and orange picking, allowing you to enjoy the fun of learning about ecology.

Taipei has a rich and diverse culinary scene featuring classic delicacies and vibrant street snacks. Innovative cuisine is readily available, and the city has garnered significant Michelin recognition. The Michelin Guide Taipei, first published in 2018, showcases Taipei's profound gastronomic heritage to the world and attracts numerous domestic and international food enthusiasts to explore this culinary capital.

Every foodie has a list of Taipei's must-eats. If you want to taste Michelin-starred international cuisines, you can't miss Le Palais, the Cantonese restaurant receiving three stars for consecutive years. Other star winners include The Guest House featuring Chinese cuisine, Japanese restaurant logy, and the constantly innovating Tairroir. Yangming Spring and Mountain & Sea House, both awarded Michelin Green Stars for their spirits of sustainability, promise you culinary excellence with eco-friendliness.

In addition, under "Bib Gourmand," dozens of Taipei's street foods are recommended, from the famous stinky tofu and xiaolongbao (small steamed dumplings), to the authentic beef noodles that is a favorite of Muslim visitors, and the cold noodles, luwei (soy-braised dishes), oyster omelette, and heibaqie (platter with various sliced foods) on locals' dining tables every day. These authentic Taiwanese flavors are great choices for experiencing the culinary scene of Taipei.

Seasonal Events & Activities

Each season in Taipei—spring, summer, autumn, and winter—offers a distinct charm, accompanied by a vibrant calendar of events.

Spring days are filled with floating flower petals everywhere you go. The cherry-tree bloom is the headline act of Yangmingshan Flower Festival. The brilliant vignettes of azaleas bring touches of serenity to bustling neighborhoods. The visual purity and pastoral beauty of Zhuzihu Calla Lily & Hydrangea Festival wipe away the worries of daily life.

In summer, there are numerous exciting events staged in riverside parks. Taipei International Dragon Boat Championships, Taipei Water Festival, and Taipei Summer Festival at Dadaocheng are all events where the whole family can cool down in hot summer!
